RAISED PROFILE

Melamine is the durable finish used on our ¾" and 5/8" particle board products such as shelves and uprights. It is a decorative paper in solid colors or wood grains laminated to the particle board via a thermally-fused chemical process to achieve great bonding strength and be resistant to moisture, chipping, heat and abrasion. Melamine laminated cabinetry components used in closets, offices, pantries and other rooms are highly resistant to wear and tear. As an engineered material, it does not warp or discolor like real hardwoods.

Thermofoil finish is used on our Raised Panel, Pillow Top, and Modern profile style door and drawer fronts. PVC plastic is bonded to a single, molded MDF (medium density fiberboard) substrate door or drawer front panel using heat and pressure. It is resistant to chipping and cracking. Thermofoil single-piece door and drawer fronts, available in solid color and wood grain finishes, are commonly used in conjunction with melamine cabinetry components to provide inexpensive but elegant, classical styling.

Decorative Laminate Veneer (DLV) finish is used on our Premier recessed panel door and drawer fronts. DLV is a technologically-advanced manufacturing process, wrapping photo-realistic decorative solid color and wood grain foil paper around complex-shaped MDF components. DLV permits creation of 5-piece recessed panel door and drawer fronts with wood grain patterns that follow the perimeter of each finished panel. DLV finishes also include lacquer and glaze top coats to complement the styling of the finishes.
